ST. CLAIR

Appointed County Road Supervisor--Other Fiscal Court Proceedings.

HARDINSBURG, Ky., April 10.—All the magistrates were in attendance, with Judge Moorman presiding. The court continued five days adjourning Saturday.

The court appropriated $85 to defray the expenses of Breckenridge county at the "Home Coming Week" in Louisville speeches in favor of this appropriation were made by Judge Mercer, Gen'l Murray, John P. Haswell and others. Some doubt was expressed by some as to whether this would be technically legal, but the doubt was resolved in favor of the progressive citizens of the county, who will without question approve the action of the court. All the other counties of the state are participating in this great affair, and the county could not afford to provide for its representative.

The results of the votes taken at the Road Convention, were spread upon the order book of the court, and the sentiment of that convention was allowed as closely as possible in all matters pertaining to road matters.

The office of county supervisor of roads was created, and James V. Blair was elected to that position and his salary was fixed at $600 per year. He will be permitted to select one assistant in each magisterial district. Mr. Blair will give his whole time to the work of his office.

The allowance for pauper coffins was fixed as follows: For persons under 10 years of age $3; for persons over 10 years of age $6 each.

By an order made by the court, the pauper commissions, is required to visit the poor house each month, without giving notice to the keeper, so that the inmates are suitably provided for. The keeper is given the term free of rent, and allowed $150 per week for each inmate.

No claim will be allowed hereafter for the court except it be sworn to and the certificate to the officer administering the oath, attached.

On account of the absence of the county attorney, One Brown, at Owensboro, Ed. Dillon and Franklin Meers, Ed. Dillon and Franklin Meers, of Hardinsburg, were in the city Sunday afternoon.

TRIAL

Of John Henry Clark, One of Alleged Murderers of John Coke at Hudsonville.

HARDINSBURG, Ky., April 10.—Monday looked like circuit court day. The trial of the alleged murderers of John A. Coke was the magnet. Fully 700 people crowded into the court room when the case of the commonwealth of Kentucky versus John Henry Clark was called before Judge Henry Moorman. Nothing like it was ever seen here before. The killing of Coke had aroused intense interest in the whole southern end of the county, and there was some little talk of a mob by some, but the good sense and respect for law of the citizens of the county will never let such a thing materialize.

At the conclusion of the testimony for the commonwealth, Mercer and Mercer announced that the defendants would waive any further examination, and Judge Moorman ordered that he be held to await the action of the grand jury, without bail, and Clark was remanded to jail. The evidence adduced against him was circumstantial; but it was shown that he was arrested at Sand Knob, 20 miles from his home near Hudson; that he had told Wm. Chaney, in a laughing manner, two or three times, that he was going to get an old man for his money, only a short time before the killing, that he did not come to Coke's home after the killing with the other neighbors, and that he had Mr. Coke's coat on when he was arrested. Jailor Shellen testified that the defendant and Holland were confined in cells down stairs and the others arrested for the same offense were in the upper cell; that he overheard Holland talking to those up stairs through the sewer pipes, and that he said in the presence of the defendant that he, Holland, knew a good deal but he wasn't going to tell it. The other upstarts told him what they had told Arthur Beard, the deputy sheriff, and Holland said he had told H. Beard the same thing. Other property of Coke's, a razor and two knives were also identified, but they were in Clark's possession before the killing. These are the chief points brought against him. Clark is a young man of about 32 years of age, with light brown hair and blue eyes, and has fairly intelligent features. The sentiment of the people seems to be rather against him. The cases against the others will be called to-morrow, and it may be that some of the others will waive an examination.

THE EVIDENCE.

Lee Bishop was the first witness called. He was the coroner who held the inquest over the dead body of John A. Coke. He found the body lying in front of his house. He was lying on his right side shot in the breast with a single barrel shot gun. He found $20 in the right hip pocket. A broken tobacco stick was shown Mr. Bishop, who said it was the same stick he found near the body.

Pias Tucker was the next witness. He discovered the body while he was going to his work the next morning about 7 o'clock. Did not make examination. Said the last time he saw Mr. Coke was the evening before about 3 o'clock at Hudsonville. He bought two pair breeches and paid for a half of wife. A vest was shown Mr. Tucker. He said it belonged to Coke. He also recognized a coat which belonged to the dead man and was the same goods as the vest. The coat had been worn in the rain and was the same coat found on the prisoner when captured. The witness said he found $10 in an overcoat that was under the bed in room occupied by Coke.

Ed Butler was next put on the stand. He was asked about the fire in the fire place. He said the wood was in the fire place ready to kindle, but saw no signs of a fire being made. Looked like a man had fired the wood for making the fire but was called away before he got through.

Arthur Beard deputy sheriff was the next witness and the officer who arrested Clark near Sand Knob 20 miles distant from his home near Hudson. He arrested Clark about 9 o'clock Monday night. He recognized the coat shown him as being the same coat, the prisoner had on when he arrested him. This coat belonged to the vest and suit worn by Coke before his death.

Chas. Beard deputy sheriff was with Beard and helped make the arrest. He corroborated the statement of Beard.

Will Chaney was called he recognized the gun produced to him and said it was the same gun he saw Clark with before the killing. It was a single barrel loader.

Bob Clark saw the prisoner the next morning after the killing met him in the woods as he was going to his brother's. As he returned he met the prisoner again in the woods. He had the gun. Said Clark remarked to him in a joking way "I believe I will get out and kill an old man and get me some money." This conversation was before the killing. He had on his person at the time two pocket knives, a razor collar button and coat. Clark said he won the knives, razor and gun in a game of poker with the prisoner.

Pias Tucker was recalled and identified the knives and razor belonging to the dead man.

Dan Quiggins heard gun fire on the night of the killing. He also said the razor was the one he used to shave Clark with before his death.

John Stillwell also identified the razor as Coke's and the one he used to shave him.

Clarence Stillwell said it was the same razor.

R. A. Shellenman jailor of Breckenridge county said he heard Holland one of the prisoners in the jail talking to the other prisoners through the sewer pipe in the jail. Holland said "he knew a great deal about the killing but was not going to tell it."

Judge Willis was next on the stand. He said the wade were No 13 and fit the gun. Said he was a detective and had been employed to work up the case.

The commonwealth rested their case here.

Clad Mercer for the defense waived further examination and asked the Judge to commit the prisoners without bail.

BIDS INVITED.

HARDINSBURG, Ky., April 10.—Special—Arthur Goodman, the local contractor, has received notice from George W. Fegan, the chief engineer of the Madisonville Hartford and Eastern R'y Co., that bids for the construction of the railroad will be received at his office in Hartford, until the 23 of this month. Mr. Goodman will probably be a successful bidder. In the notice, it is stated that the total length of the road is about 35½ miles, beginning at a point on the Providence branch of the Louisville and Nashville R. R. about 30 miles west of Madisonville, and extending a north easterly direction via Hartford to the intersection with the L. & N. St. L., at Mitchell. The work of construction will commence about May 11.

Royal Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

Made from Pure Grape Cream of Tartar

In baking powder Royal is the standard, the powder of highest reputation; found by the United States Government tests of greatest strength and purity.

It renders the food more healthful and palatable and is most economical in practical use.

Housekeepers are sometimes importuned to buy alum powders because they are "cheap." Yet some of the cheapest made powders are sold to consumers at the highest price.

Housekeepers should stop and think. Is it not better to buy the Royal and take no chances—the powder whose goodness and honesty are never questioned?

Is it economy to spoil your digestion by an alum-phosphate or other adulterated powder to save a few pennies?

STRONG TEMPERANCE LECTURE BY H. K. TAYLOR.

Prof. H. K. Taylor, of Louisville, delivered a temperance lecture at Orléans hall last Thursday night to a host of two hundred people.

A song was sung, then a prayer offered by the Rev. R. H. Reed, living in, followed by an introduction of Prof. Taylor by Attorney Emanuel Wroe. This being Mr. Wroe's first appearance before an audience since his recent admission to the bar, he received great applause as he arose to introduce the speaker of the evening. Wroe has a good delivery. Every word he spoke had a true meaning to it.

Mr. Wroe said: "It affords me great pleasure to present to you this evening an ideal educator, ideal because he teaches the heart, the hand and the head. Ideal because he fights evil in all of its phases, in all of its places, from the precincts of the State Legislature, I present to you tonight the man who has done more towards securing the passage of the Cummack local option bill at Frankfort in the Legislature, than any man in the State (Applause.)"

"I appreciate Mr. Wroe's words," said Prof. Taylor, "I believe to work for local option is the highest calling of any man or woman. Every man should array himself on the side of temperance so that his position can not be possibly mistaken."

"There is today much encouragement in Kentucky for good. The morals of the State are on an upward trend. The Christian people are on top. I am free to say that I have not heretofore admired the Governor of Kentucky. No personal ill-will whatever, but I have not admired his political tactics. Whether by policy or intent or whether by the influence of a good wife or whatever the cause, the Governor of Kentucky has stood for the original Cummack local option bill from start to finish."

"The Christian people of Kentucky, outraged at the saloon simply made the demand of the machine that they must give the will of the majority or take the consequences of the next election. The local option people of the State got more from the last Legislature than they have from any other Legislature in years."

"Will Cloverport people be behind the example that is being set by the State at large? Will you let a few bootleggers ride roughshod over the will of the people? Will the chivalry of this town go to shatters when the moral trend is elsewhere climbing upward?"

"The fight of the local option bill was not in the House of Representatives but it was in the Senate. The jungle was there. Representatives who had come fresh from the people knew their will and stood by the people. A few fellows found out that it was unpopular to be on the whiskey side and they scrambled all over themselves trying to get into the band wagon. Then the temperance people got more than they asked for. They got a bill that will absolutely kill the blind tiger—a bill that prohibits any carrier to bring whiskey into a local option community in more than one gallon lot. The law becomes effective June 15 and you people have absolute protection against blind tigers if you will enforce the law."

"Whenever you hear a man stand for the respectability of a saloon, tell him there is no respectability in a law-breaking business. 'The whiskey people have publicly declared that they must cultivate an appetite for whiskey in the younger generations that are coming on or their business in future years will be ruined. They would have their drummers to advise each man seller to give young boys whiskey free in order to cultivate an appetite among them for whiskey, and later on they are sure these very young boys will pay them high dividends when they get within the

"I am against the saloon because it is an unqualified nuisance. I will not dwell on the crimes of this business. There is no heart among you that has not been hurt by the hands of rum. I would as soon stand here and plead to any nuisance in this town as in any other town as to plead for a saloon. There are no rights for the saloon. It has none. But the majority of the people give it a right to exist for a year at a time. There is no man on earth who can mention one good thing about a saloon. It is destructive of peace, quiet, order and safety in every community where it exists. The saloon breeds vice and crime."

"The saloon does not live on drunkards alone. It lives by making drunkards of our boys. This business does not go single handed. Joined with it are all the vices and crimes in existence. 'Sometimes you are told of a nice man who is in the whiskey business. If you estimate the nicety of a man by his politeness, I grant you will find many nice saloon keepers. It is impossible for any sane man to engage in that traffic which will destroy his fellow-man. The man is in it for the money—the revenue."

"Whenever you hear a man stand for the respectability of a saloon, tell him there is no respectability in a law-breaking business."

"The whiskey people have publicly declared that they must cultivate an appetite for whiskey in the younger generations that are coming on or their business in future years will be ruined. They would have their drummers to advise each man seller to give young boys whiskey free in order to cultivate an appetite among them for whiskey, and later on they are sure these very young boys will pay them high dividends when they get within the clutches of strong drink."

"The one thing worth life's struggle is to kill the whiskey traffic. The chief assets of a community are its boys and girls. This is above all. Then our purpose should be to save these boys and girls. 'The hue and cry comes up that local option destroys property values. I have evidence from a saloon keeper himself that will prove the absurdity of this claim. A saloon man told me that he built a $13,000 home in Louisville, a saloon was set up in the neighborhood; he sold the house for $8,000; built another for $10,000; a saloon was started near it; this one he sold for $5,000 and finally had to move into a section where the people had already voted whiskey out. He had sons and daughters and wanted to protect them."

"Have you ever known a saloon to enhance the value of a single piece of property. I would rather see the streets of any town grow up in blue grass than to see a town filled up with saloons."

"Have you ever seen a Town Board that has said 'out with the saloon' because it is a nuisance? No. But have you not seen the same Town Board say 'out with a pig pen' because it is a nuisance. I will take a pig pen over any corner rather than to have one saloon. Town Boards are awful quick to share all nuisances except whiskey. Strange they never get to that."

"Again some people bring up the old song of 'killing the business of a town. Well then, I suppose Cloverport is dead because it has had local option for six years. Suppose there is no new houses going up; no new business starting; everything dead, I reckon. Supposing Cloverport had saloons and a man in the country comes to town with $5. The man goes to the saloon spends $4.75 for whiskey and in gambling, spends 15 cents for tobacco and 10 cents for coffee to take home. This is the way a saloon helps the town's business."

"Suppose again, a man comes to town with $5. No saloons here. He spends all of the money for provisions for the family at home. Here is your trade benefit."

"Danville has not had saloons for thirty-five years. Her tax rate is 70 cents on the hundred dollars."

"Frankfort, the worst kept town in Kentucky, has fifty-three saloons; a tax rate of $1.50 on the hundred dollars as a poll tax to the limit."

"Mayfield has had no saloons for thirty years. A vote was taken recently and the local option people won by a 10 to 1 majority. The fellows that signed the petition for an election voted for local option."

"The highest craft of the land has said the whiskey traffic has no rights. The man who prays the Lords' prayer and helps the saloon in existence is a hypocrite."

"What is a cold in the head? Nothing to worry about if you treat it with Ely's Cream Balm as soon as you begin to sneeze and sniffle. Neglected, the cold may grow into catarrh, and the air-passages be so inflamed that you have to fight for ever by breath. It is true that Ely's Cream Balm cures catarrh promptly and certainly. But you know the old saw about the ounce of prevention. Therefore use Ely's Cream Balm when the cold in the head shows itself. The Victoria Cross.
The Victoria Cross, the most highly prized decoration in army and navy, is about 1 1/2 inches. It was instituted by royal warrant on Jan. 29, 1856, as a reward of gallantry of all ranks, and the first presentation of sixty-two crosses was made by the late Queen Victoria in person on Friday, June 28, 1857. It is in the shape of a Maltese cross and is made to this day out of metal from the Russian cannon captured at Sevastopol—St. James' Gazette.

OUR COMMON SCHOOLS.

Nobody at all informed on the subject believes that the Common School System of Kentucky is what it ought to be. A look at the miserable little cabins that serve as school houses in many, if not most of the school districts in the state, and peep made at the more miserable children during school hours, on a winter day, would convince anyone that Kentucky is behind the times in the matter of Common schools, but yet there are Southern States behind Kentucky. Southern States would be singularly wanting in patriotism and affection for his people who did not desire to have this condition improved. How best to bring about such results can only be ascertained through interchange of ideas and opinions among persons conversant with the situation and capable of helping the cause. This was suggested a Conference of the leading educators in the Southern States, for the purpose of evolving some plan to extend the educational system so as to benefit all the people.

Higher, choicer and College and Normal School institutions have done a great work, but they did not "reach the spot". What the people need is the free school and that of as high a standard as it is possible to make it, supported by general taxation. There is the rub; that question of taxation. The difficult thing is to induce the people to tax themselves for schools to the extent of having a ten month school year and teachers paid adequate salaries. In Kentucky, in the country districts, the rule is a six month school, poor for the teachers, poor for the scholars—poor schools—poor people. Any agency by which such a state of things could be remedied should receive a welcome from all good people. Such an agency is "The Conference for Education in the South" which meets semi-annually at the Southern School convention and devises methods to improve them. Its meetings are attended by eminent citizens, not only from the South but from the North and East also, who are interested in the welfare of the South and her people. The next meeting of the Conference will be in Lexington, May 8-9-10, and all who desire to see better schools throughout the State are invited to attend.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work. Pain, rheumatism, headache, and all the ailments of the blood, due to neglected kidneys.

Kidney trouble causes quick or uneasy heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, impure, poisoned blood through veins and arteries. It is used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild over-riding effect of Dr. Kline's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail, name of Swamp-Root, free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kline & Co., P.O. Box 116, New York, N.Y.

Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kline's Swamp-Root, and the address, P.O. Box 116, N.Y., on every bottle.

Women in Our Hospitals

Appalling Increases in the Number of Operations Performed Each Year—How Women May Avoid Them.

Going through the hospitals in our large cities one is surprised to find such a large proportion of the patientizing that those who are either awaiting or recovering from serious operations. Why should this be the case? Simply because they have neglected themselves. Female troubles are certainly on the increase among the women of this country—they creep upon them unawares, but every one of those patients in the hospital beds had plenty of warning in that bearing-down feeling, painful fear of the abdomen, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, dizziness, flatulency, displacements of the organs or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the female organs, and if not heeded the penalty has to be paid by dangerous operation. When these symptoms manifest themselves, do not drag along until you are obliged to go to the hospital and submit to an operation, but remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved thousands of women from surgical operations.

When women are troubled with irregular menstruation, or with nervousness, weakness, displacement or ulceration of the organs, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, bloating (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptomatic diseases, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" feelings, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

The following letters cannot fail to bring hope to despairing women.

Miss Ruby Mushrush, of East Chicago, Ind., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"I have been a great sufferer with irregular periods and female trouble, and about three months ago I began to feel very bad. I was told to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a last resort, and it not only saved me from an operation but made me entirely well."

Mrs. Alice Berryhill, of 313 Boyce Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., writes:

"Three years ago life looked dark to me. I had ulceration and inflammation of the female organs and was in a serious condition. My health was completely broken down and I was told to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Had tried to influence me against it but I went for the medicine that same day and began to use it faithfully. Within five days I felt better and was not entirely cured until I used it for some time.

"My medicine is certainly fine. I have induced several friends and neighbors to take it and I know more than a dozen who will feel as well as I do today and who are as well and strong as I am from using your Vegetable Compound."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice and medicine have restored thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Clear Case of Nerves.
The manager of a New York theater tells the following story: During a performance of "Tip Vau Winkle" the late Joseph Jefferson the manager, who was standing in the lobby, observed a countryman hovering about the entrance in an uncertain way. Finally, as with a determination to go the limit, the countryman bought a ticket and entered the house. A little while after the manager happened to be in the lobby again, when the countryman came out with an expression of intense disgust upon his face.

"Well, how do you like the show?" the manager inquired, with secret amusement.

The unknown grew confidential.

"Say, mister," he replied, "I'm goin' to have a mighty hard time spainin' to-day. I want to do with them two dollars, but you kin bet I won't get 'em. I paid it to see an old fellow fill up on 'feller' an' go to sleep when I could 'a' gone up ter their tavern at the corners an' 'a' seen old Bill Hurd-ree live it for nothin'!"—Success Magazine.

Frankened the Bride to Death.
In the Church of Christ at Bessie, in Bohemia, a marriage was about to be solemnized between Anna Rodin, aged nineteen, and a youth of her choice. Bride and bridegroom stood all ready before the altar, where were lighted tapers. Before the priest could unite the bridal pair one of the tapers became suddenly extinguished. A loud shriek came from the bride, and she gasped, "Mine love is 'erleashed!" ("My taper is extinguished!") and sank unconscious into the arms of the bridegroom. Immediately all attention was turned to the condition of the bride. Several attempts were made to revive the poor girl, but in vain. The bride, in her chapel and veil, died at the altar rail. The superstition of the village of the plain is that if a lighted taper becomes extinguished on either side of the altar the person standing on that side of the altar where the light went out will suffer a dire calamity—London News.

Calling People to Church.
When I was examining the church bells of the old tithing of Yorkshire some years ago I came to a little place called Foston, on the walls between Alton and Thirskham. It was a very primitive place, quite cut off from the world, the few inhabitants hardly knowing the road over the hilltop to the next place northward. The distinctive building which serves as a church is built near the brow of the hill. It has no tower, bell turret or bell cot. On inquiry I found that it had no bell. The tower came over on horseback now and then from a neighboring parish, tied up his horse outside the church, opened the door, put on his surplice and then walked the top of the hill and cracked his whip several times. "And then we know as it's time to sing it do!" said my informant on the spot—London Notes and Queries.

Editor News, Sir: I like Judge Moorman's plan for good roads. He wants good roads for the people to go to church in the winter as well as in the summer. Judge Moorman loves the people of Breckenridge county and wants to help them. Every man ought to help to have good roads. As I have lived in Breckenridge county fourteen years I think I know something about the condition of the roads there.

A Thousand Dollars' Worth of Good.

"I have been afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble for years passing gravel or stones with excruciating pain," says A. H. Thurmes, a well known coal operator of Buffalo, O.

"I got relief from medicine in the form of Foley's Kidney Cure, and then the result was surprising. A few doses started the brick-dust which substance and now I have no pain across my kidneys and I feel like a new man. It has done me $1000 worth of good."

Foley's Kidney Cure will cure every form of kidney or bladder disease. A. R. Fisher.

Commonwealth ex. George Douglas, colored, of Owensboro charged with robbing Wilson's store was tried by a jury and acquitted after which he was taken to Cloverport by the Sheriff to answer the charge of having broken into the store of Frank Fair and robbed it. Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate gland. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Hedley Barnes, of Port, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old."—A. RACE SUICIDE IN FAMILY OF GREAT FINANCIER AND RAILROAD MAGNATE.

Arrived late of Son of Jay Gould and Wife Described as Ideally Happy—Regardless of Great Wealth, They Live Very Simple.

The Goulds have been married 20 years. It was in 1886 when the eldest son of Jay Gould, then almost an adult, and his wife, who was then a factor in the success of his two brothers, Edward and Frank, in a present, prodded the town with a momentary success by wedding Miss Edith King, who was a member of Augustin Lytle's theatrical company. The match was regarded as ideal in all respects as King's position socially and professionally was assured. Her husband

"When the train came in Mrs. Bleakley was placed on the Pullman without extraneous attention and put in charge of the first boy's parents, they obeyed."

"The parents were simply ordered to see Mrs. Bleakley through Kansas City safely, and, like good modern parents, they obeyed."

"The difficulty lay in the Union depot at Kansas City, where it was expected a detention telegram would be awaiting them. The Sheriff of one of the largest counties in Illinois, J. H. RODE TO THEIR DEATH.

HEROIC CHARGE OF TWO CHEYENNE INDIANS AGAINST FIVE TROOPS OF CAVALRY.

A Tragic Romance of the Tepee—Repetition of the Days of Chivalry—Flesh and Blood Against a Mail of Lead and Bullets.

About fifty miles north of the Big Horn Mountain, and forty miles south from the Yellowstone River, in southeastern Montana, live the tribe of fearless Northern Cheyenne Indians. A few decades ago they ranged the great plains, following the buffalo, but are now attached to the Tongue River Agency.

The men are tall, well-built, brave; and their women are proverbially chaste. When the disappearance of the game and the decadence of intertribal warfare, the young braves have had little or no opportunity to show their prowess.

In the summer of 1890, two young men—Head Chief and Young Mule—who had failed to find favor with the maidens of their choice, took to the war-path to win distinction and wives. The moon and the disappointed lovers, wearing their eagle feathers red-tipped, as warriors do, were again at home.

Rumors of their return soon reached their Agent, who recalled that a white herder living near the reservation had been missing from his home for nearly a month.

The Murder of a Sheep Herder.

The returned braves were questioned. They openly admitted going on the war-path and killing the herder. A detachment of the two troops of cavalry stationed at the Agency, assisted by some Northern Cheyenne men, made search for the body. It was found on the evening of September 9, and had been scalped.

Fearing trouble, three additional troops were hurriedly sent from Fort Keogh, Montana, and the Agent called a council of the chiefs and headmen, demanding that they arrest and deliver the murderers.

Two moons after the war chief, battle-scarred and old, pleaded for the young braves, offering a ransom of thirty horses for the dead herder. The Agent declined. Chief American Horse then arose and said his warriors would fight if the soldiers attempted to take the young braves alive; and that their final message was:

"Select the place of meeting, and we will come and die in your sight, fighting the soldiers."

The council was dismissed, and the Indians returned to their lodges in the hills south of the Agency.

Twilight fell. Soon a flaming arrow blazed like a rocket in the southern sky. And far to the north, signal fires were seen.

Gathering of the Warriors.

All night armed warriors, hideously painted, hurried to the circle of hills commanding the Agency, while lights burned late in the valley below, where the army officers were reconvening. As a precaution the Sheriff advised "Mrs." in front of the name on a bench Saturday was in Moline, under the protection of that court's decree.

"The whole thing was ludicrously simple and yet was woven of some curious coincidences, each helping to carry through the escape and each playing its unpremeditated but important part in the final success."

The red-headed college fraternity boy was Eustice Smith, son of Senator Smith.

Eagle Quill for Statedhood Bill.

President Roosevelt will sign the Statedhood bill with a pen made from a quill plucked from an Oklahoma eagle's tail.

When Charles Hunter, the newly appointed clerk of the district court at Oklahoma, Oklahoma, was in Washington some days ago, the President promised to give him the pen which he would use in signing the Statedhood bill.

Hunter went home and had a pen made from an eagle's quill.

A Great Hunter.

His brand new gun was "hammerless." His powder, too, was what is known as "smokeless," and we guess that he had "hitless" shot.

yards from the Agency. They take position in the form of a crescent, and sit with loaded carbines unloading, waiting.

At the top of the long steep hill in front, sublimely against the flaming sky, sit the two slender braves on their ponies. Coolly they lash themselves to their saddles. Raising their rifles high above their heads, they shake them at the troops and begin a shrill song of defiance. Suddenly they fire at the Agency. Their signal!

Into the Jaws of Death.

A bugle blows. In an instant they launch their ponies, straight as arrow from the bow, at the center of the crescent of soldiers. Down the hill they come, full charge, shouting the savage Cheyenne warcry and firing as they ride.

A bugle blast! and a withering volley blazes forth from five hundred guns. Still the ringing war yell. On through the smoke they come, apparently unscathed, working their rifles like mad.

The Steersman bill places the entire management of the work in the Reclamation Service and the plan of operation follows very closely the irrigation work now being done by that branch of the interior Department.

The Steersman bill provides that the government lands in Indian lands and private lands may be included in any drainage project, but in each case the cost of the drainage improvement is to be borne by the owner of the land and no settler can have drainage provided for more than 160 acres, thus insuring the division of the tracts into small farms which must be actually settled upon and tilled.

Drainage Work Already in Progress. This was the Reclamation Service is qualified to do at this very moment. While primarily an engineering bureau it has in all its great irrigation projects, to deal directly with the farmer. It must outline a comprehensive drainage system for each irrigation project.

The Steersman bill provides for the beginning of the work of reclamation of these huge areas. The measure is framed after the irrigation law; it provides that the results from the sales of public lands in the non-irrigation states shall constitute a "drainage fund" to be expended by the Government in great drainage works, and further, that the cost of such drainage work shall be paid for by the settlers in the "fund," to be used over and over again for additional reclamation work.

FARMING THE SWAMPS.

PLAN TO DRAIN MILLIONS OF ACRES OF WORTHLESS MARSH FOR NEW FARMS.

Representative Steersman Has Bill to Provide a Government Fund to Reclaim Hundred Million Acres of Wet Lands.

The great swamp areas are destined to come in soon for their share at the hands of the government. The irrigation of desert lands has been provided for; but no definite move has been made as yet to convert the enormous areas of government swamp land into productive farm homes. The other day a bill was introduced to provide for the drainage of the great Des Moines Swamp of Virginia, which General Washington, a century ago, proclaimed would one day be converted into farms.

The Steersman bill places the entire management of the work in the Reclamation Service and the plan of operation follows very closely the irrigation work now being done by that branch of the interior Department.

The Steersman bill provides that the government lands in Indian lands and private lands may be included in any drainage project, but in each case the cost of the drainage improvement is to be borne by the owner of the land and no settler can have drainage provided for more than 160 acres, thus insuring the division of the tracts into small farms which must be actually settled upon and tilled.

Plowing Contests and Lawn Making.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL.

One looking at the accompanying pictures would not think that these are pictures of a "College Field Day" but such is the case. Last year the School of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota varied little from the usual field day program, and added two new features to its regular field day sports.

O. K. Lathrop, of the Senior Class, took second prize, with a score of 81 per cent, and W. J. Peterson, of the Junior Class, took first, with a score of 80 per cent.

THE WINNER OF SECOND PRIZE AND HIS TEAM.

Other new feature was a plowing contest in which only boys participated. Plowing is not altogether a light sport either, no matter in what you look upon it. This was illustrated by the participants who revelled in the spectators that in order to be a good plowman, one must be somewhat of a civil engineer, as well as an excellent horseman.

The field of battle was, and they will be better farmers and better citizens for having entered the plowing contest.

Plowing as commonly done is often considered as drudgery, and so it is by the thoughtless, careless plowman, who has no other object in view than that of making the field look black.

The greenward is the canvas upon which all architectural and landscape effects are produced. A lawn may vary in extent from a few square feet at the side of a house to the broad acres of extensive parks.

A BIT OF LAWN AT THE LEWIS AND CLARK EXPOSITION.

He must get a low plow perfectly in the first place. Next, he must be kind to his horse and gain the confidence of his team, for no man can do good plowing without the confidence and co-operation of his team.

After the seed bed has been thoroughly and carefully prepared and the grass seed scattered in appropriate quantities, according to the kind used, the surface should be given a careful raking or rolling if the area is dry.

Each contestant was given a strong farm team and a plow. He had to adjust the plow, drive and while free to suit the condition of the land.

In general, Mr. Corbett says, further, a lawn should be beautiful and it should be useful. Its beauty depends upon the contour of the land, the color of the turf, the texture of the turf, the uniformity of the turf.

Henry Johnson, of New Richmond, Minn., a member of the Freshman Class, took first prize. His score was 80 per cent perfect.

The ideal soil for a lawn is available in but few cases where it is desirable to establish a greenward. Ordinarily the lawn in which a man is most interested is that immediately surrounding his abiding place. The soil of this immediate locality is, in general, greatly modified because of building operations or necessary grading. The soil with which one has to deal, therefore, seldom a normal soil of the locality.

The ideal soil for grasses best suited for lawn making is one which is moderately moist and contains a considerable percentage of clay—a soil which is somewhat retentive of moisture, but never becomes excessively wet, and is inclined to be heavy and sandy.

Preparations for the Lawns.

Since the lawn is intended to be a permanent feature of the decoration of a place, its endurance or span of life is of utmost importance. In general, grass seeds are small and the surface seed bed for the reception of these seeds need not be more than 1 inch in depth.

The mechanical operations of preparing the soil can be carried on by the use of the modern plow if the area is large enough, or by spading if the area is small. The seed bed should be thoroughly and frequently stirred, so as to grind the soil particles together as much as possible.

The greenward is the canvas upon which all architectural and landscape effects are produced. A lawn may vary in extent from a few square feet at the side of a house to the broad acres of extensive parks.

With 300 to 500 pounds of a high-grade fertilizer upon each acre. The fertilizer may contain 3 per cent nitrogen, 8 to 8 per cent phosphoric acid, and about 8 per cent potash.

After the lawn has been established and it has gone into "winter quarters," it is well to give the young grass a mulch of well-decomposed stable manure, which should not be heavy enough to disfigure or mar the lawn, but should be so fine and well decomposed that it will be carried beneath the surface of the grass by the rains and snows of the winter, leaving very little rough or unsightly matter to be raked off in the spring.

The Kind of Grass.

Kentucky blue grass is undoubtedly the great lawn maker for all that section of the Atlantic coast region north of Washington, D. C., and for the Allegheny region as far south as northern Georgia. Blue grass thrives best in a comparatively retentive, strong soil where there is an abundance but not an excessive amount of moisture.

In general, because of the varied conditions of shade and moisture existing upon a lawn as the result of trees, shrubs, and architectural objects, mixtures are more desirable than pure grasses. The different degrees of shade and moisture maintained in the soil which result from the presence of buildings and the surrounding areas afford a variety of conditions under which a single species would not produce a uniform lawn.

Mysteries of the Ages.

During that wonderful and mysterious period, popularly spoken of as before the ice age, in other terms, the preglacial period, nature expressed herself with a lavish abandon of which we can form but a faint idea. The primordial rivers were mighty torrents, instruments of stupendous metamorphic energy. In their work of erosion and deposition, vast quantities of gold were freed from confining embedment and deposited along their channels. Through untold ages, perhaps, this work of uncovering and depositing—Nature's prehistoric gold mining and storing—continued, or until that particular formative cycle was completed. Then the earth passed into the travail throes of more energetic formation, as expressed in volcanic and glacial action. Pierce volcanoes sent forth their molten streams, filling up ravines and gorges, creating new elevations and depressions, and burying deep under layers of volcanic debris, the old river beds, the evicted waters of which laboriously wrought out new channels for themselves.

Following this storm time came a season of comparative quiet in which the newly located streams were permitted to take up again with diminished force the old work of tearing down, dissolving and dropping the freed gold along their channels.

While no reliable method can at present be given for the detection of the presence of added vegetable matter in general it is necessary that special tests must be made for special vegetable coloring matter. The detection of a number of simple methods for detection of artificial coloring matter which may be had on application at the Department of Agriculture.

Romulus Was Perplexed.

Old Romulus took sick one day, and in a little while it looked as if his end was near. The minister was sent for and came promptly—a stout man, done up in one of those religious waistcoats without any buttons down the front or any opening at the neck.

The minister said to Uncle Romulus: "Is your mind at ease, brother?"

"Yes, sah," answered the old man.

"Are you sure there's nothing troubling you?" the minister went on.

What Fertilizers?

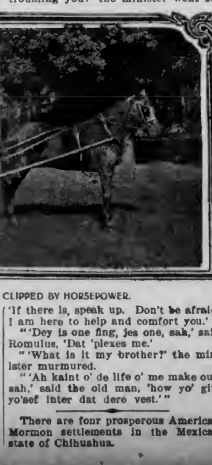

Since the lawn is a permanent feature, it is hardly possible to make the soil for the reception of the lawn too rich. Stable manure which has been thoroughly composted and rotted and which is as free as possible from detrimental weed seeds is undoubtedly the best material to use in producing the desired fertility of the soil. Forty to sixty loads of well-decomposed stable manure are not too much to use upon an acre of land designed for the greenward. Where such stable manure is not available the next best plan to follow is that of plowing under green crops, such as clovers, cowpeas, and beans, and similar plants.

Mr. Julian Brown has planted a number of shade trees in front of his store property on Main street which will add much to the appearance of the sight. Up the same street a square, Mrs. George Jordan has set out trees around her corner lot. In a few years the location will have plenty of shade and beauty at which will add much to the value of the property. It costs but very little to plant trees and it seems that every lot holder along the town's Main street, at least, should help to beautify the place by this means as well as to add to the comfort of the many tollers who are compelled to hike up and down this barren thoroughfare three times a day and more when Old Sol is doing his best to melt the earth.

How to Boil Water.

To boil water would seem to be a very simple thing, and yet the late Charles Deimonico used to say that very few people know how to do it. "The secret is," he said, "in putting good fresh water into a clean kettle already quite warm and setting the water to boiling quickly and then taking it right off for use in tea, coffee or other drinks before it is spoiled. To let it steam and simmer and evaporate until the good water is in the atmosphere, and the time and iron and dregs only left in the kettle is what makes a great many people sick, and it is worse than no water at all." For water boiled the usual way and flavored with a few drops of lemon juice Mr. Deimonico used to charge as much as for his best liquors, and he often recommended it to his customers and friends who complained of loss of appetite. It is worth trying. —Good Living.

The Alternative.

The doctor had been called to see a pituita's wife. On coming down from her room the doctor said to the husband: "Well, Georgy, I'm glad to say there isn't very much wrong with your wife. It's a case of too much food, and we'll try an old fashioned remedy. Just get a leech at the chemist's and put it on her, and I believe you'll find her better when I call in the morning." Next day the doctor called again and, meeting the husband, who was a bit of a sportsman, like many of his kind, said: "And how's your wife this morning, Georgy? Better, I expect." "No, but she's worse," replied Georgy. "Worse?" exclaimed the doctor. "But what do you as I told you last night?" "Well, not exactly, for I couldn't get a leech, so I put the ferret I bed with." —London Tatler.

Valuable Desolate Islands.

The most valuable desolate islands in the world are the Lincovs, in the Arctic ocean, off the mouth of the Lena, in Siberia. They are first found and utterly barren save for Arctic moss, but they contain such enormous quantities of fossil ivory that they are exceedingly valuable—in fact, although uninhabited save for the ivory diggers and of themselves incapable of supporting life, they produce a revenue of £100,000 a year.—London Queen.

A Bengalee Peculiarity.

A doctor remarks: "What strikes one most at a Bengali hospital is the lack of signs of proportion in the estimation of diseases. A man is gravely perturbed because he has not sneezed for three months, but he is comparatively indifferent to the fact that he exhibits the early signs of leprosy."

Ethnologically Great Britain is a mixture of many races, resulting from a number of successive invasions. The Romans invaded Britain the Inhabitants were Celtic, mixed with an earlier Eusekarian non-Aryan element. The Celts were to be mainly so until the fifth century, when the Anglo-Saxons, the level parts of the country were overrun by German tribes. Then followed invasions by the Danes and other Scandinavian tribes and finally the Norsemen, who settled in the north of England and the lowlands of Scotland, therefore, sprang from an amalgamation of the original Celtic with German and Scandinavian blood. The Celts of Scotland and Ireland are still inhabited by descendants of the ancient Celtic tribes. The people of Ireland also are of Celtic origin, although there is an admixture of many other races.

GOV. FOLK ON THE SALOON

I have heretofore spoken to you of the pernicious effects of the state licensing the liquor traffic in any form. The so-called high license law should be amended so as to eliminate the licensing of the liquor traffic by the state. This law enacted in 1888—prohibits under penalties the selling of liquor except at certain locations agreed upon by citizens of the town or residents of the block where it is permitted for a fee that goes to maintain the city, county and State. Until the passage of this act there was no effective law on the statute books to suppress the cross roads grogeries that flourish like apple trees throughout the state. For the good that has been done, many highly honorable citizens oppose the repeal of the law. Many who take this position are actuated by selfish motives, while others no doubt, are selfishly interested in having the law retained. With a due regard for the opinion of others, I give my views as it is my duty to do, and leave you to act as your conscience may dictate and your judgment tell you is right.

In my opinion, as far as the law goes in the direction of restricting the liquor business, it is good; but it does not go far enough. If the liquor business is an evil thing it should not be permitted at all. Certainly the law should not sanction such a business, and by licensing it makes the state a partner in iniquity. Stripped of all useless verbiage this act levies tribute on debauchery and crime. In this respect it is indefensible from any moral standpoint. If it be insisted that men will drink and sell liquor any way, and the state may as well profit by their appetite, and lost for gain, it could with equal force be argued that men will kill, and therefore the state should license murder in certain forms and in certain places so as to profit by this weakness of mankind.

If it be said that the licensing of the liquor traffic is justifiable when the proceeds of the license go to help maintain our worthy institutions, the answer should be: The state of Missouri is wealthy enough to support adequately its institutions without making them owe their existence to the licensing of a business that degrades the youth and pollutes the morals of men. If it be right to maintain our institutions in part by the licensing of the wrong, the same principle would justify the support of our institutions wholly and even the State government from the tithes of legalized crime. The government of Monte Carlo draws its substance from the licensing of the gambling table, but such an idea is abhorrent to every Missourian. If it would be wrong to support the State government by putting a price on evil, it is wrong to license the liquor traffic at all. This is not the demand of a healthy public sentiment that will not tolerate the state sharing in the profits of vicious practices.

For the Children

To succeed these days you must have plenty of grit, courage, strength. How is it with the children? Are they thin, pale, delicate? Do not forget Ayer's Sarsaparilla. You know it makes the blood pure and rich, and builds up the general health in every way.

The children cannot possibly have good health unless the blood is in proper condition. It cures any constipation, by giving small laxative doses of Ayer's Pills. A vegetable sugar coating.

Like a Romance Was This Match.

Irvington, Ky., April 6.—Something of a sensation was created this morning when the news spread abroad that a run-away couple were on the Irvington & Fordville train and the father of the young lady had telegraphed the Mayor to apprehend them. This was promptly done and the young lady was taken to the McCoy House to await the coming of the alert father. Her bright face aroused the sympathy of the spectators and some of the boys who could not bear to see such bright hopes dashed to pieces, when so near the goal, planned to lend a helping hand. Croyton Claycomb gained the admission of the young lady and by permission of her hostess carried her bodily out in front of the Mayor, who thinking the vigilant eye of his officer, T. J. Adkinson, would not make escape possible. Lewis H. Jolly, having secured a buggy, drove around Railroad Street to the Hotel, and the young lady, accompanied by Claycomb, met him there, and they drove out the public road towards Brandenburg, Ky. The young man, piloted by John Simmons, struck across the fields, and met the occupants of the buggy, here Jolly turned the young lady over to the happy young man, and they, accompanied by Lonnie Dowell, drove off for the goal of their ambitions, amid the heart cheers of the crowd who had gathered, and gave the officer the laugh.

The young couple met for the first time last evening, their courtship having been done through a correspondence agency. The young man's name is Bertram Martin, age 24, of Sausalito, Wis., and the young lady is Miss Letha Marshall, age 18, of Fordville.

CONFERS HONOR UPON MR. HAYNES.

The following letter from the Louisville Commercial Club confers an honor upon one of Cloverport's most congenial business men, Mr. Eugene Haynes. On account of the absence of his partner, Mr. Geo. W. Short, Mr. Haynes says it will be impossible for him to accept commission. Such an honor coming from the Governor of Kentucky is doubtless a source of gratification to Mr. Haynes.

Louisville, Ky., April 4, Mr. Eugene Haynes Cloverport, Ky. Dear Sir:—Upon the request of the Executive Committee for Home Coming Week in Louisville, June 13 to 17, 1906, tier, J. C. W. Beckham will appoint a commission to represent officially every county in the state at Louisville during the big June event. The Governor wishes you to represent your county and you will receive the commission if you will accept.

The commission carries with it no compensation; nevertheless, we believe you will appreciate the honor conferred.

You will have the power to appoint a hostess to serve with you and a vice-commissioner to assist you and the hostesses in the hospitable role. The hostess may also name a maid of honor. All will participate as fully as they desire in the exercises and functions but none will be entertained at the expense of the Local Committee.

Please let us have your decision by return mail.

Yours very truly,
R. E. Hughes
Director General.
R. S. Hines
Chief Executive.

Chairman of Count Commissioners Committee.

MOTHERS OF CLOVERPORT

Are Your Children Thin, Pale and Ailing? If So Read This.

"Vind will make children strong, robust and toy and we will return your money."

Is there a mother in Cloverport who will ignore such generous offer as this? You can not one cent. We pay for all the Vind your child takes if it does no good.

There are plenty of children all around us who are thin, pale, ailing and tired all the time. Don't want to do this, and don't want to do that. Do not blame the children, they have no strength, no blood, no vitality; rapid growth takes all their strength. Vind is just what our child needs. It is a delicious cod liver oil preparation, and the children love it. It creates strength, makes rich, red blood, and vitality as nothing else can. And after a severe sickness there is nothing that will build your child up like Vind.

Mrs. E. M. Oswald of Mansfield, Ohio, writes: "My little daughter became so poorly that I was obliged to take her from school. She was thin, no appetite, tired all the time and weak. We had tried several medicines without benefit. Since taking Vind, however, she is as well as ever; she has gained in flesh, has good appetite and is going to school every day."

"We want to say to every mother in Cloverport that Vind will build your little ones up into strong, robust, healthy children. We have never sold anything equal to it in our store for this purpose, and we will return your money if it fails." Short & Haynes, Druggists.

The Epworth League gave an open social in the Methodist church parlors last Friday evening.
